LIBERTERREAN

No. 219

January 15, 1985

LIBERTERREAN DEADLINE IS: Monday, February 4, 1985

EDITORIAL:

Did you all make it through 1984? At least one LIB snbber wants me to keep the 1984 Essay contest open for one more submission. So, if you also have something more to say, send it in.

Reagan's administration changed its tack a little bit during 1984 on the Nicaragua question. Did you notice? They used to say the "Contras" were going to overthrow the Sandinistas and establish "democracy" (of course there was no democracy when the Contras were in power before the Sandinistas. And a larger percentage of Nicaraguan voters voted for the Sandinistas than US voters for Reagan in their respective elections this past Fall).

Now the official line is: US support of the Contras is designed only to keep the Sandinistas "off-balance" (sounds innocuous enough doesn't it? Hardly sounds like anyone is getting hurt at all!) so they can't send Communist weapons to the rebels in El Salvador. After 5 years of US claims of Sandinista support to the El Salvador rebels one might expect to see some evidence of Communist weapons in El Salvador. Has there been so much as a pistol found captured from the rebels? If there had been, you can bet Reagan would hold a giant press conference to show it off to the world.

Face it, the Reagan administration just wants dependent client regimes in Latin America, and isn't concerned at all if the countries are democratic or not.

ARMORED BARBARISM 1985:

It is August, 1939 once again and WW2 is about to erupt. More than 30 LIBbers have developed and played Armored Barbarism since 1975. This is the first AB game to be opened in more than a year. I want 10 players: Germany, Russia, France, United Kingdom, Italy, Poland, Spain, Turkey, United States and Japan. But I will begin as soon as the first 8 positions are filled, adding the US and Japan later. I think I will be able to play a small neutral, Sweden, without disrupting the game.

Each issue of the LIB will be one or more monthly turns in which players have full diplomatic and economic control over their countries. Military control includes all strategic decisions, maintaining rosters of infantry divisions and armored regiments, purchasing units from a two-page appendix of vehicle types. Infantry and armored carriers are standardized. Operational decisions about zone attacks and defenses, whether to send reinforcements to an embattled zone, or to withdraw, how much to commit to an attack or defense are all fully within the players' control.

Weather is a factor in this game, and is important enough to probably reduce operations during winter months (except in N. Africa and the Middle East), so some turns might include more than one month. Minors may be politically controlled, and strategic movement of units require fuel expenditure (if you don't save enough PP in your fuel account, your units won't move). However, players receive monthly income. You no longer have to wait to do annual budgets.

Tactical combat will be played with the force mixes chosen by the players using the SSI computer game "Combat Leader". I and my friends here in Eugene will play each month's tactical scenario twice and combine the results for the combat reports to appear, along with player press and reports of force levels engaged, in each issue of the LIB. It is possible players in other locations might be assigned tactical scenarios to play provided at least two can get together from opposite alliances and have Combat Leader to play.

If you want more information, a SASE will bring you a copy of the rules and a Strategic world map. If you want to play, accompany your request for assignment with your preference list of positions, the $3.00 game fee, and at least $2.00 for the first 8 turns at $0.25 per turn.

We have a player for TURKEY:

NICK CHRONES, 2333 Monroe St.
EUGENE, OR 97405

NOTICE:

For the NEXT DIPPY GAME I show requests on file from the following players: ROBERT CHEEK, MARK TRIFKOVIC, DAN GORHAM, JOE TUHARSKY, TOM GRAESSLE, PAUL GARDNER, MIKE BOHANNON, and RICK KOHMAN. Most of these were placed into the Teh Board game, so I'm not sore if you want to play a regular game, too. Let me know.

LETTERS:

Jim:

I have to come up with a champion for LOM? Well, that's a bit tough, since there was a 1-year period where no Dip games appeared (actually, there were no openings for 2 years), and the newer games haven't been running long enough to choose anybody as a "champion" without taking a chance of possible "GM interference" by inferring that one player was better than the others. However, one name from my second game (1981 AS, which was declared irregular since nobody ever gave orders for England) does stick out that I know is still around -- Jerry Lucas.... What happens if he isn't a LIB snbber, or he doesn't want to enter the Jonst?

-- Ooo Oel Grande

Life of Monty

[All participants in the Jonst will be subbers, but a reluctant champion is a problem. I advise you to choose one who is willing.]

Dear Jim,

Thanks for the invite to the Jonst. That's a good idea! However, as my "Inner Light"'s game is just getting started, I have no champion to put forth to defend my fledgling zine's honor. Maybe next Jonst when the first is over. By then I ought to have a game finish or two under my belt.

--Best,

Inner Light, 8866 Cliffridge
La Jolla, CA 92037

[I don't require you to have a game finish in order to put a champion into the Jonst, so you're still welcome to enter one to defend the honor of "Inner Light"!]

It's time to crown our TCDE (The Concert of Europe) champion. Drnm roll please.... The result [is] ... Bart Aikens. [C129 Hillcrest, Iowa City, IA 52242]. Okay Bart, the honor of [TCDE] is at stake! EVERYTHING is riding on your shoulders. However, I am supremely over-confident that you will win untold glory. Infact, I am so over-confident that I am going to stake the epithet "America's Premiere Game Journal", that John Carnso bestowed on TCDE way back when it first began in the late 1950s, on your success. If Bart doesn't win the championship game, I will never again refer to TCDE by its rightful title. When I told the Prophet about the result of the voting he swore he would shave his head if TCDE, er, Bart I mean, does not win. Needless to say the game will be presented in the pages of TCDE so we can all savor the triumph we, er, Bart so richly deserves.

-- Mike Lee

[TCDE readers had a couple of weeks lead time over LIB readers in the selection of a champion. However, I'm beginning to worry the LIB may miss the Jonst. No LIBber has stepped forward as a champion yet!]

Don't be shy. Don't wait to step forward, nominate someone else! If I don't receive any nominations by next issue, I'll conscript a champion. We can't let TCDE win by default!]

Jim,

Thank for the copy of LIBERTERREAN. I'd certainly be interested to know how you found out about my being a pubber!

Dip Jonst questions: Is the game PBM or PBM? Also, what will the negotiation time be between deadlines? "Conference Call" would be better placed to provide you with a champion if it were PBM with at least 5 week deadlines, though I'll plug it as soon as I get answers to these questions.

On Feb 11 I'll be mailing issue #1 of "Excelsior", so don't be discouraged by the size of CC. Sorry about the delay -- I received this Dec 31/84! Canada Post has alerted the world of its discovery that one S. Claus lives in our country (postal code H0H 0H0), with predictable results.

-- Cheers,

Bruce McIntyre

[We in Eugene know nearly everything there is to know about Dip pnhbing. After all, we have the biggest concentration of Dip zines anywhere. Three zines and one snbzine are published here (LIB, TCDE, NMW, and Fnord). The Dip Jonst is indeed PBM, and the deadlines will be approximately 3 weeks apart, with a double deadline of 6 weeks for initial diplomacy. Hope to see a champion from your zine in these pages!]

Dear Jim,

Stephanie Diann Powers was born at home on 5 Jan 1985. We had a mid-wife and I got to perform the delivery (with her assistance) and set Stephanie free (cut the cord). What an experience. At the hospital the Ors. always wanted to give c-sections. The Or. on my 8lb son told me she would never be able to have one that big again. In a way he was right -- Stephanie was 8lb 6oz -- Teresa's biggest baby and easiest delivery; so much for the medical profession. If any of your readers are interested in home birth, have them call or write me and I can give them some information. I don't live in the woods; Edwin Moses, D.J. Simpson, Don Sutton, and several others live within 3 miles and the hospital is only 5 minutes away. Home birth was a choice and a wise one in our case. My wife only had two hard contractions and delivered within 3 hours of waking up. Hospitals tend to rnsb (break water, use herbs, and give drngs) but home births take their course, naturally.

PS: I almost named her "Liberty".

-- Jack Powers

[Liberty! A good name. Stephanie is a good one, too. My sister has the same, also.]

LIBOURSE:

Players in the Libourse trade in the currencies of the Top Board Game, 1984 IR. You may join the game at any time by submitting the $3 game fee together with your request for assignment and a name for your country (only Top Board players may use the name of their position in the Diplomacy game).

Your country will have characteristics in the following categories: population, treasury, agriculture, military, industry, mineral resources, communications, transportation and utilities. You will receive approximately $7,000 in currency of the surviving Diplomacy positions in the Top Board game. You must improve your country in all categories to do well. And you may attack one other Libourse country each turn. Random events may help or hinder your progress.

PRESS:

PARIS: I hope these orders will be sufficient to end the game and Italy wins. I wish I had the stamina to continue it and stab Italy. I want to finish the game, though, so please send me a flyer (I'll cover the cost), as I do want to see a conclusion. I'm no renewing my sub as I'm more into duplicate Bridge now and haven't spent the necessary time in diplomatic efforts to do well. I really enjoy your zine -- it's punctuality, editorials, precision and class of its editor.
I've let this hobby rest once before and I got back into it because "the game" has qualities like no other. Maybe, a couple years down the road, I'll renew my interest and you'll be the first person I contact!! Thanks for the memories.

-- Bill Hugh

[Thanks for the good words. We'll be glad to see you when you return. We'll still be here!]

ITALY>RUSSIA: Why did you take back Rum? If I had kept it, & won, you would have tied for second, with 8 centers. I do believe it was fair, and what I'd have done in your position.
Now you'll be a clear & distant third, after losing Den, Rum & Sev -- and possibly Nwy. Still not too bad. Any bad feelings should be mitigated by 1) your own insistence on Killing Kevin K; 2) the fact that Turkey died, even with some of your support (not your fault); 3) your "deathblow" to Turkey in taking Ank.
After (3), it was clear I would win unless you could get Bill to go after me. If you think your diplomacy is good enough, or thought it might be, then continuing the game with that hope was reasonable. Otherwise you should have admitted that I won & play for #2 -- stop F and let me win while you still have more.
My agreements with Bill were to help him in return for his word not to stab me. He lived up to his, so I'm trying to live up to mine. My last agreement with you was that if F stabbed me, you'd win; if I stabbed you, I'd win. The other second in both cases. This would have allowed the winner to revenge the stabber by killing the stabber. This is a reasonable Diplomacy strategy.
-- helps both, is very playable. You stabbed Turkey, so now I'm going to win by getting revenge & taking from stabber, you

FIELD OF FIRE

Field of Fire (Avalon Hill, $30) is a one-player tactical game simulating eight small-unit infantry combat scenarios from WW2. Those of you familiar with Broderbund's Operation Whirlwind will notice some similarities in this game. Roger Damon designed them both, and Field of Fire is a further development and improvement on Operation Whirlwind.

Each game lasts an hour or two, and all player input is with the joystick. You give orders to your units in separate Fire, Movement and Assault phases. Operations occur during a "real-time" phase in which you must keep close track of the action in the battle. At any time, you may press the Select key to re-target your units' fire, or the Option key to order an assault.

The units are fire-teams of 1-6 men, or individual tanks.
There are Headquarters, Rifle teams, Machine Gun crews, Barooka/Panzerfaust teams, Mortar crews, Forward Observers, Engineers and Anti-Tank Guns. Each unit is identified by the name of its leader. The documentation describes each of these men. You might consider the information when giving each of them tasks to accomplish. The program provides an Editor to allow you to change the names of any of the 32 characters in the game.

There are 10 terrain types in the game, including roads, trees, ridges, hilltops, woods, buildings, streams and rivers, mountains and bledgerows. Terrain and distances may block the line of sight to a target. The map scrolls smoothly across 5 screens. Status messages appear at the top and bottom of the screen.

The 8 scenarios include a Night Patrol in Tunisia; Forever Road in Sicily; Omaha beach D-Day landing; Night of St. Anne to close a pocket on some Germans; Up From the Beach, breaking out of the beachhead; For Aachen, block-by-block clearing of a city; Ardenne Dawn, the last-ditch German counter-offensive; and Roeder Crossing, one of the last obstacles before the Rhine.

The last 8 pages of the 25-page manual is a detailed description of the actual "Night of St. Anne" written by the commander of I Company of the 3rd Battalion, 26th Infantry, 1st Division.

For players of wargames, this program is an excellent value for the money. The color, graphics and sound are appropriate and well-executed. It is really 8 games in one, as each scenario is complete in itself. The program offers the option of a "Campaign Game" in which you play each of the scenarios in order. Player performance is graded at 5 levels from Questionable to Strategic.
